How does acne form?

Dead skin cells and sebum accumulate to form a plug. Sebaceous (oil) glands produce more sebum leading to a build-up.

Acne bacteria feed on the sebum, multiply and cause inflammation.

The immune system responds and the area becomes red and swollen.

